NOTE.

THIS is a connected genealogy in seventeen sections. Should any reader find further facts relative to these Corboulds, or to their antecedents, descendants, or collaterals, the writer would be very glad indeed to receive at the address below such further information, as it is intended to publish a supplementary volume concerning these other Corboulds later on. Space is provided in the book for additions to the genealogy; it is hoped that every Corbould will there punctually record each important family event as it happens, and will, if possible, notify the writer who is keeping a current general register of the family.

SECTION I.

CORBOULD OF THORNDON

RICHARD CORBOLD, born c. 1395, dwelt at Horham, co. Suffolk, near the home of the following William Corbald, of Occold (which lies three miles west of Horham). No other instance of the spelling of the name in this form occurs previously so far as wide and careful search has revealed. To the writer, it is the earliest known recorded instance of the fixation of the name still in use, that is, the first syllable COR or GOR being used with BALD, BOLD or BOULD; but see Appendix A.

The first fact recorded of Richard was a dispute concerning the Manor of Horham which ended in a lawsuit to which he and Sir William Brandon were parties in or about the year 1440. Judging by the evidences still at Occold, William Corbald seems to have been a person of substance; though Richard of Horham was described in the lawsuit as a yeoman.

WILLIAM CORBALD of Occold, Suffolk, b. circa 1450, died c. 1490. He and his wife were buried in a monumental tomb (which has an inscription in Latin of six verses) at Occold churchyard, a mile and a half from Thorndon where the family afterwards settled. There is a brass to his memory in St. Michael's Church, Occold. He married JOAN . . . (her house was burgled in 1522, as Henry VIII granted a pardon in June of that year to Christopher Pyrson of Thorpe St. Peter's, Suffolk, who, with John Paynter, broke into the house of Joan CORBOLDE, widow, at Occolte, Suffolk, and stole fifteen pence, a qr. of black damask 1/8, and two sets of ivory beads 2/8). They had issue:—

JOHN CORBOULD of Thorndon, Suffolk, born c. 1480, d. in 1558. Will dated 30 July 1557; probate granted at Bury St. Edmunds 19 Feb., 1558. Married ALICE, born c. 1500, bur. at Thorndon 8 Apr. 1558, sister of Robert GILDERSLEVE of Thorndon, and had:—

1. ALICIA CORBOULD, born c. 1521. Married at Thorndon, 1 Oct. 1542, WILLIAM ROWE, and had:—
 - 1a. MARGARITA ROWE, bapt. at Thorndon 1 Oct. 1543.
2. WILLIAM CORBOULD, born c. 1525, of whom presently.
3. GREGORY CORBOULD, born c. 1530, of whom hereafter.
4. THOMAS CORBOULD, born c. 1533. Mentioned in his father's will. He had a son JOHN, who was living in 1558. Vide "CORBOULD OF DEBENHAM" (Section XI).
5. JOHN CORBOULD, born c. 1536. Mentioned in his father's will. He had a son THOMAS.

6. ROBERT CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 20 Aug. 1539. This is the first Corbould entry in Thorndon Registers, which commence in 1535 and are some of the oldest in England.
7. ELIZABETH CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 3 Nov. 1543.

WILLIAM CORBOULD of Thorndon, yeoman, born circa 1525, d. 1611, bur. at Thorndon 10 Jan. 1611. He married MARIANA . . ., d. 1612, bur. at Thorndon 21 June 1612. He surrendered lands to Edward Brame at the Lete Court of the Manor of Little Thorndon 19 Jan. 1600, and held Thorndon church lands in 1607 at a rental of £14, being released £3 conditionally on "daubinge and splintinge the building of a new house, finding and layinge the thatche at his own proper costes and charges." He paid his rent till 1611; but in 1612 the "widdowe Corbolde" pays it, thus confirming the 1611 burial of William in the registers, and that the burial of Mariana Corbould, widow, in 1612, was that of Mrs. William Corbould, as the churchwardens' accounts no longer mention payment by a Corbould.

His will (at Bury) is dated 29 Sep. 1610, and probate was granted 24 Apr. 1612. Her will (at Bury) was proved in 1612. They had issue:—

1. LAURENTIUS CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 25 Mar. 1559, bur. at Thorndon, 26 Mar., 1559.
2. EDWARDUS CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 25 Mar. 1559.
3. JOANNA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 13 Aug. 1563.
4. MARGARITA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 23 Feb. 1565, bur. there 13 June 1566.
5. DOROTHY CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 31 May 1567. Bur. at Thorndon 8 June 1567. Another Dorothy C. married at Thorndon 25 Oct. 1601, John Crane, and had a son John, bapt. at Thorndon 13 June 1602.
6. JOHN CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 11 Dec. 1568.
7. GREGORY CORBOULD, the younger, of Thorndon, bapt. at Thorndon 2 Feb. 1570, bur. at Thorndon 15 March 1642. At a Lete Court of the Manor of Little Thorndon "Gregory Corbould—on part of Aspal" is mentioned in the Rolls. He married 1st, on 3 May 1591, at Thorndon, ELIZABETH WOOLFE, who was bur. at Thorndon 9 May 1611. He married 2ndly, at Thorndon 9 Aug. 1612, MARGERY SAVAGE, who was bur. at Thorndon 12 Apr. 1627. By his 1st wife, Gregory Corbould had:—
 - 1a. HESTER CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 5 March 1598.
 - 2a. ANTHONIS CORBOULD, twin with Amia, bapt. at Thorndon 16 Aug. 1601, bur. at Thorndon 4 Dec. 1602.
 - 3a. AMIA CORBOULD, twin with Anthonis, bapt. at Thorndon 16 Aug. 1601.
 - 4a. JOHN CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 17 March 1604.
 - 5a. THOMAS CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 25 Jan. 1606. The will of Thomas C. of Cotton, yeoman, was proved 15 Apr. 1684.
 - 6a. ANNA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 25 Jan. 1606.

8. EDWARD CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 10 May 1573.
9. THOMAS CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 18 Sep. 1575.
10. ELIZABETH CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 12 Apr. 1579.
11. AMIA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 8 Apr. 1582.

GREGORY CORBOULD, the elder, of Thorndon, born c. 1530, son of John and Alice Corbould, paid subsidy on land at Thorndon in 1566 and 1568. At a Lete Court of the Manor of Little Thorndon he paid a fine to Queen Elizabeth. He was then a dweller and landowner in Occold; but seems to have moved in later years to Thorndon. He was buried at Stoke Ash, near Thorndon, in 1617. Gregory pastured his animals at Stannell Green, Manor of Little Thorndon, in 1601. He married at Thorndon 30 July 1563, ANN ALLIN, who was buried at Thorndon 4 July 1597. They had issue:—

1. HENRY CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 25 Feb. 1564, bur. there, 30 March 1567.
2. ELIZABETH CORBOULD, bur. at Thorndon 9 Feb. 1581.
3. ALICIA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 7 Jan. 1566, m. at Thorndon 21 Aug. 1598, JOHN CALVER.
4. MARGARET CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 16 July 1570. Married at Thorndon 3 Oct. 1602, THOMAS HINGENS. THOS. HENGEAMS was bur. at Thorndon 7 Nov. 1630. The name is possibly that of HENICAMS, a family formerly at Mellis, near Thorndon.
5. JOHN CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 28 March 1573, bur. at Cotton 4 March 1665.
6. WILLIAM CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 11 Dec. 1575.
7. RICHARD CORBOULD, b. 1582, of whom hereafter.
8. MARIANA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 6 Dec. 1584, d. young.
9. MARIANA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 6 June 1591. Married at Thorndon 3 July 1614, EDMUND SHELDRAKE, who was bur. at Thorndon 15 May 1658. They had:—
 - 1a. ELIZABETH SHELDRAKE, bapt. at Thorndon 11 Apr. 1615. Married at Thorndon 27 Sep. 1642, ISAAC FRENCH, who died in Jan. 1660, and was bur. at Thorndon.
 - 2a. MARGARETA SHELDRAKE, bapt. at Thorndon 14 Dec. 1617.
 - 3a. JOHN SHELDRAKE, bapt. at Thorndon 15 Apr. 1623, Died in or before 1627.
 - 4a. JOHN SHELDRAKE, bapt. at Thorndon 13 Apr. 1627.
10. ELIZABETH CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 23 Sep. 1593, bur. there 16 Dec. 1596.
11. WILLIAM CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 7 March 1595. Buried at Cotton, 12 Jan. 1686. The date of his marriage to MARIA BRIDGES is not known. They had:—
 - 1a. MARIA (BRIDGES), bapt. at Thorndon 21 Jan. 1620.

RICHARD CORBOULD, of Thorndon and Cotton, both in Suffolk, 7th child of Gregory and Ann, was bapt. at Thorndon 13 May 1582. Paid ship money for "Hensmalls" and a further sum for his own land in 1639-40 to Charles I. Buried at Cotton 31 Aug. 1658. In his will, now at Somerset House, he mentions two sons, Thomas and John, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Knapp and Mrs. Sarah Seaman.

He married at Thorndon 19 Feb. 1610, PRUDENCE, bapt. at Thorndon 9 Jan. 1580, bur. at Cotton 4 Aug. 1655, younger dau. of Roger JESSEPE, of Thorndon and of kin to the Bartle Frere family. They had:—

1. THOMAS CORBOULD, b. 1611, of whom presently.
2. ANNA CORBOULD, bapt. at Thorndon 8 Feb. 1612. She, or one of her sisters, married SIMON DAVY, and had a son ROBERT, mentioned in the will of his uncle John Corbould.
3. JOHN CORBOULD, of Thorndon and Cotton, gentleman, bur. at Cotton 22 Dec. 1692. Will dated 9 Dec. 1692, probate granted 5 May 1693.

He married in 1652, ANN, bapt. at Thorndon in 1631, dau. of JOHN BRAHAM. Six years later he was left the Thorndon estates by his father. John Corbould left his wife £40 and £5 yearly, the executors being Richard Corbould the younger, and Edward Frere of Wickham Skeith.

They had:—

- 1a. JOHN CORBOULD, bapt. at Cotton 4 Dec. 1653. Believed to have died in 1665.
4. MARY CORBOULD, born 1615, married EDWARD KNAPP, a widower with four children, and had:—
 - 1a. EDMUND KNAPP, who received a pecuniary bequest from his uncle John Corbould.
5. SARAH CORBOULD, born 1616, married at Cotton 7 July 1641, THOMAS SEAMAN, progenitor of the Seamans of Coddendam. The Cotton estates were surrendered to Thomas and Sarah Seaman by her brother Thomas Corbould in 1641. They had two sons and six daus., who are mentioned in the will of their uncle John Corbould.
6. RICHARD CORBOULD, of Cotton, b. 1617, d. 1636, bur. at Cotton 22 Nov. 1636. His death is recorded in Cotton Manorial Rolls, 1637, at Moyses Hall, Bury St. Edmunds, and Thomas Corbould is mentioned as his brother.
7. A DAUGHTER, married . . . PALMER, and had a son, who received a legacy under the will of his uncle and godfather, John Corbould.

THOMAS CORBOULD, of Cotton and Mendlesham, yeoman, bapt. at Thorndon 21 July 1611. Paid Ship Money to Charles I in 1639-40, and Hearth Tax on two houses at Cotton and one at Mendlesham in 1674. Heir of his brother Richard. Thomas Corbould surrendered his lands in 1641 to Thomas and Sarah Seaman. Buried at Thorndon 3 Nov. 1681. CORBOULD OF FITZROY SQUARE

RICHARD CORBOULD, of Holborn, London, gent., 4th son of George Corbould (see Section III), was born in the parish of St. Edmund, Lombard Street, 18 April 1757, bapt. at St. Edmund's Church, 24 April 1757; articed to Mr. Maris; was a left-handed painter in oils and water-colours of portraits, landscapes, still life and historical subjects, miniatures on enamel and ivory, also on porcelain, and an etcher; but best known as a prolific illustrator of works of poetry and fiction. Between 1776 and 1817 he exhibited 100 landscapes at the Royal Academy, 4 at the Free Society of Artists and 27 at the British Institution.

Farington the Diarist recorded that Richard "Corbold" called on him (2 April 1807) and brought a picture entitled "The Bard," "which I was much pleased with. Corbold told me that He was a pupil of Maris and resided with Him in Glanville Street, in the year 1773 in the House in which I at that time resided."

Died at Highgate, Middlesex, 26 July 1831, and was buried with his wife at St. Andrew's Church, Gray's Inn Road, Holborn. His will, dated 28 May 1831, and witnessed by W. and B. Bousfield of Chatham Place, was proved in London 19 Aug., 1831.

5. THOMAS PHILLIPSON CORBOULD, b. 19 Jan. 1792, d. in infancy.

HENRY CORBOULD, F.S.A., of 70, John Street, Fitzroy Square, London, W., painter of landscapes and miniatures, was born in the p. of St. Andrew, Holborn, 11 Aug., 1787, studied painting with his father, and was at an early age admitted a student of the Royal Academy under Fuseli, where he obtained a silver medal for a study from the life. While at the Academy he was the contemporary and friend of Chantrey, Westmacott, Flaxman, Stothard and West. His first picture, "A Study," was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1807. In 1808 he showed "Coriolanus."

Hy. Corbould frequently sat as a model to Benjamin West, and is "St. John" in two of West's paintings in the National Gallery. A large part of his life was occupied in drawing from ancient marbles, including those in the collections of John, Duke of Bedford, and the Earl of Egremont, and the vast collections in the British Museum, which alone occupied thirty years. His highly finished drawings of the Elgin Marbles were afterwards published, and are now in the dept. of Prints and Drawings in the British Museum. He made the drawings for an edition of Camden's "History of England," and in 1838 designed the diploma of the Manchester Unity of the Independent Order of Oddfellows. He was a member of the Dilletanti and Antiquarian Societies.

Rough water-colour sketches of the "Great Britain one penny black," the world's first adhesive postage stamp, were made by Sir Rowland Hill in 1840, and from the rough sketches thus provided, a finished drawing was made by Henry Corbould, who followed the general design of a medal by William Wyon. Mr. Corbould's drawing pleased Queen Victoria so much that by her special desire this portrait was to be used for all British postage stamps during her lifetime and those of a number of the colonies. The original sketches are now in the collection of His Majesty the King.

One of E. H. Corbould's reminiscences gives us an interesting insight into Henry Corbould's household at Great Coram Street, Russell Square, in 1830. H.C. said to his son, "Now, Ned, you will be butler tonight, and counting yourself and Frank as men, we shall be a dozen. Put out two dozen of port and have half a dozen in reserve under the sideboard. Here are the labels for the guests with their names and addresses on, so that the hackney carriage-drivers know where to deliver them." It is related that early on the following morning one driver arrived back to say that the occupants of his conveyance had been fighting and had got their labels torn off, so he didn't know where to deliver them.

The nearness of Great Coram Street to the country was illustrated by the fact that E. H. Corbould saw a fox followed by hounds and huntsmen, and killed in a brewer's dray in that street opposite his father's house.

Henry Corbould won a bet at his Club that he would shoot a certain number of snipe within a given number of minutes. When asked where he had shot them, he replied "In the marshes round Westminster."

His sons Edward and Frank one day borrowed a pony from a field on the north side of Euston Road, and having ridden up to Highgate to visit their grandfather, Richard Corbould, and finding the house apparently deserted, they got in through a window. They found their grandfather in bed covered only by a sheet. He told them that his nurse had said "You'll be dead by the morning, so I will lay you out now." Then she made off with his blankets, and the servants fled too, afraid of being left alone with a corpse. Fortunately Richard Corbould was of hardy stock, and he survived for some years after that event.

A contemporary biographer records that Henry Corbould was "devotedly attached to his profession, and his liberality and kindness to his brother-artists, when they required his assistance, was long remembered."

When he was riding from St. Leonards to Hurst Green in Sussex, on his way to marry Mary Anne, b. 9 April 1787, daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth Wale of Curzon Street, Mayfair, widow and cousin of Sir Francis Chantrey, Kt., D.C.L., M.A., R.A. (to whom Sir Francis left his large fortune in trust, and afterwards to form the "Chantrey Bequest"), during the severe frost on 8 Dec. 1844, he had an attack of apoplexy, and died at Robertsbridge at 2.30 a.m., on the 9th, and was buried on 14th Dec. within the parish church of Etchingham, Sussex, where there is a tablet to his memory.

His obituary notice records that "the arts have sustained a severe loss by the death of this excellent artist. He was surpassed by few in professional knowledge; no painter of his time was more thoroughly acquainted with drawing; and his copies from the antique may be referred to as models of accuracy and truth . . . Henry Corbould was eminently distinguished by courteous and gentlemanly manners; his person was fine and manly, and his countenance remarkably handsome." Between 1802 and 1840 he exhibited 44 historical paintings and drawings in the Royal Academy, 21 at the British Institution and 3 at the Suffolk Street Galleries. Will proved in London in Jan. 1845.

He married at St. James's, Hampstead Road, MARY, b. 1786, d. 31 March 1827, bur. at St. James's Chapel, Hampstead Road, dau. of Thomas PICKLES, gent., and had:—

1. JULIA CORBOULD, b. July 1814, d. 17 Dec. 1817.
2. EDWARD HENRY CORBOULD, R.I., see Section VI.
3. ROSINA CORBOULD, b. 7 April 1817, d. 10 Jan. 1821.
4. FRANCIS JOHN CORBOULD, of Sydenham Place, Upper Sydenham, Kent, and Sonning Lodge, Reigate, Surrey, M.D. Aberdeen, F.R.C.S. Eng., L.R.C.P. Lond.; M.R.C.S., L.S.A. 1841, F.Med.S. Lond. Born 25 Feb. 1819. Godson of Sir Francis Chantrey, Kt., R.A. Educated at the Palace School, Enfield, under Dr. May.

He exhibited great ability as a sculptor; but was induced, chiefly by the counsel of his godfather, to adopt the medical profession. He was appointed Surgeon in the P. and O. Company's Service, but left it on hearing that the 1851 Exhibition Building was to be moved from Hyde Park to its present site, and commenced private practice at Sydenham. He continued in practice there for 21 years without holidays. On moving to Reigate he stored his family silver, pictures and furniture at "The Pan-technicon" for 3 days, not renewing the insurance premium; in that short space of time the whole of it was destroyed by fire.

He died of angina pectoris (aggravated by riding a tricycle) at Reigate 12 March 1884, aged 65, and was buried at Reigate. His will was proved 29 April 1884 at £36,500.

Married at the British Embassy, Paris, 22 Feb. 1849, MARIA, 2nd dau. of William M. HOLLIS, Esq., J.P., of Brighton. She died without issue, 24 Sep. 1910. By her will, pr. in London, she left £57,771, mostly to members of the Corbould family.

5. ELVINA CORBOULD, b. 28 April 1820, d. 1840.

6. HENRY HEATH CORBOULD, of 9, Barnsbury Place, Islington, M.R.C.S. Eng. 1843, L.S.A. Lond. 1847, twin with Alfred, b. 2 Nov. 1821. His career was settled in the following manner:—His father on entering the nursery observed that he was playing with a file and a toothbrush, on the handle of which he had filed a longitudinal groove crossed by transverse ones along which he smeared his finger. He asked his son what he wanted to be, and was told "I should like to be a dentist." His father went out, and whilst riding met his doctor and explained to him his boy's desire to become a dentist and enquired what was the proper course for him to adopt. The doctor replied "Just send him to a medical school and if he fails in all his exams. you can make a dentist of him." This course was adopted; but he became a general practitioner.

He died 19 Dec. 1861 at 5, Tynedale Place, Islington. Will proved 25 Jan. 1862.

Married 23 April 1848, ANN (of 6, Ruvigny Mansions, Putney, b. 1823, d. 15 Feb. 1919 in her 97th year; will pr. in London 12 Mar. 1919), dau. of Lieut. James KER, R.N. (b. 1784, d. 1846, bur. at Minehead, Somerset) by his wife (m. 1815) Mary, sister of Admiral Sir James Scott, K.C.B., and dau. of Thomas Scott of Ham Common, Surrey, Raeburn and Glenluce, Scotland.

Mrs. H. H. Corbould was a sister of Mrs. Aster Corbould, aunt of both Capt. and Mrs. Frank Ker Corbould, and cousin of her own son-in-law, Col. C. Forbes Bell.

They had:—

1a. ELVINA MARY CORBOULD, of 24, Queen Square, Bath, b. 27 April 1849. Authoress of "Studies in Elocution," "Sidelights on Shakspeare," books for children, and a series of handbooks on knitting (by "E.M.C."), which attained great popularity 60 years ago.

Married MARK ANTHONY ROBINSON, of Brighton, L.R.C.P. Edin. 1882, L.R.C.S. Edin. and L.M. 1882 (St. Thomas's Hospital). He died without issue at Brighton 19 Dec. 1911, and was buried at Ditchling, Sussex.

CORBOULD AND KER MARRIAGES.

2a. ANNIE ROSE CORBOULD, of 5, Normanton Avenue, Sefton Park, Liverpool, b. 6 Aug. 1854, d. 7 Feb. 1930, interred at Allerton cemetery, 10 Feb. 1930.

Married at St. Mary Abbots Church, Kensington, 8 April 1880, her cousin, Colonel CHRISTOPHER FORBES BELL, who was born 14 April 1852 at Birkenhead, educated at King Edward VI's Grammar School, Norwich, under the headmastership of Dr. Jessopp, 1869-72; lived in Birkenhead and Liverpool, raised and was first Colonel of the "Liverpool Scottish" (10th Scottish, King's Liverpool Regiment), which adopted the Forbes tartan (omitting 2 narrow black lines) in honour of their first Colonel; partner in Ihlers and Bell, Merchants, Liverpool; Vice-President of the Heswall Hospital, Liverpool; a freemason; d. at Liverpool 7 July 1921, bur. there. Will proved in London 9 Sep. 1921.

He was the 1st son and 2nd child of Christopher Bell, of Birkenhead, b. 1814, by his wife Margaret, dau. of William Forbes, of Peterhead, Aberdeen.

His grandfather, Rear-Admiral Christopher Bell, c.B., married in 1811, Elizabeth Royall (b. 1786), dau. of Commander John Ker, R.N., by his wife Ann Royall.

Col. Bell was descended from the Bells of Suffolk, and had issue:—

1b. ETHEL MARGARET FORBES BELL, b. 28 Jan. 1881, at Liverpool.

2b. MAJOR HENRY CORBOULD FORBES BELL, 73rd Carnatic Infantry, Indian Army, retired; b. at Liverpool 8 Sep. 1882, educated at Liverpool College and the Royal Military College, Sandhurst. Served in South Africa 1902 (medal with four clasps), and in the Great War (Mesopotamia, 1917).

Past Master of the Perseverance Masonic Lodge No. 155.

Married at St. Jude's Church, South Kensington, London, 28 Sept. 1921, HELENA JANE, dau. of Charles Octavius PHILLIPS, of Mexico City, by his wife Isabel Barbara Robertson. They have one son:—

1c. PETER FORBES BELL, b. at Heswall, Liverpool, 17 Sept. 1922.

3b. EVELYN FORBES BELL, b. at Liverpool, 5 Feb. 1885.

3a. HENRY FRANCIS CORBOULD, of Clifford House, Shaldon, Devon, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., and 1st M.B. London, 1880, Charing Cross and St. Bartholomew's Hospitals 1879; b. 9 Jan. 1859; appointed to the British Guiana Medical Service, then House Physician and Res. Acc. at Charing Cross Hosp., and Asst. Demonstrator of Anatomy at Charing Cross Hosp. Medical School. Died unm. at Shaldon 11 June 1892. Will pr. in London 30 June.

4a. WALTER EDWARD CORBOULD, artist, of 65, Waldemar Avenue, Fulham, London, S.W.6., b. 28 Aug. 1860 at Islington. Pupil of his uncle E. H. Corbould, R.I.; educ. at South Kensington Art Schools, Great Tichfield Street Government Schools and Hatherly's in Newman Street. Later studied at the Academy School, Antwerp, for 2 years, then at the Academy of Arts, Munich, 1886-8. Exhibitor at the Royal Academy, Burlington House, London.

7. ALFRED HICHENS CORBOULD, twin with Henry, b. 2 Nov. 1821. Between 1844 and 1863 he exhibited 20 portraits at the Royal Academy. Died at his residence, 86, Warwick Gardens, Middlesex, 5 Dec. 1874. Letters of administration granted 5 Feb. 1875.

Married at Fulham 31 Oct. 1848, MARY GRACE (of 25, Brook Green, Hammersmith, d. 8 March, 1895, probate of her will being granted in London 17 April to Henry Eddowes Keene, bank manager, and Walton Corbould, artist; value of estate £7,483), dau. of Samuel Browne KEENE, solicitor, of Furnival's Inn and Ipswich, by his wife Mary, dau. of John Sparrow of the Ancient House (otherwise Bishop Sparrow's House), Buttermarket, Ipswich, which was occupied by the Sparrow family for three centuries. Mrs. Corbould was the sister of Charles Samuel Keene (1823-91), the distinguished "Punch" artist, and had:—

- 1a. DOROTHEA MARY CORBOULD, of Cedar House, Marloes Road, Kensington, and afterwards of 19, Earls Terrace, Kensington, authoress and novelist, b. 1849, d. unm. 15 Dec. 1928, shortly before the publication of her last book. Will proved in London 19 Jan. 1929.
- 2a. ALFRED CHANTREY CORBOULD, artist, of 8, Pembroke Road, Kensington, W., b. 13 July 1852, author and illustrator of "The Corbould Sporting Alphabet." Celebrated for his drawings of hunting and other sporting scenes. Exhibitor at the Royal Academy. Joined "Punch" staff in 1871 aged 18, and remained till 1890.

He was war correspondent for "The Graphic" in the Russo-Turkish War and was present at the Plevna siege. It was at this period that he adopted his particular style of dress, which he continued to the end of his life:—A fancy vest buttoned up almost to the collar, flat white tie with horse-shoe pin, black blocked felt hat, half the height of a top hat, with flat brim and crown, very tight trousers and red sash, single-breasted coat with no lapels or outside pockets. This costume, associated with his height (about 6-ft. 3-in.) gave him an unusual and striking appearance, and his loud and cheery laugh dominated any gathering he was in. As a raconteur he was always appreciated at the Savage Club and was a great favourite with his fellow-artists. He and Phil May were kindred spirits. It was at the Savage Club that the great likeness between the late Dr. Nansen, the famous explorer, and Dr. Victor Corbould was noted, shewing that the Scandinavian type persists in the Corboulds.

In Chantrey Corbould's studio were many mementos of and portraits by artist friends. He died 25 March 1920, and was buried at Golder's Green, London. Administration of his estate was granted in London 16 May, 1924.

Married at Kensington in 1884, SIDNEY ANN JONES, b. 24 April 18 . . ., and had an only child:—

- 1b. FRANCIS CHANTREY CORBOULD, b. 24 Aug. 188 . . Lived abroad.
- 3a. ROSALIND KATE CORBOULD, of 30, Iverna Court, Kensington, W.8., formerly of Cedar House, Marloes Road, Kensington. Superintendent of the Female Staff, General Post Office, London. B. 1853. D. unmarried at Iverna Court, 30 Nov. 1929. Bur. at Golders Green, London, 5 Dec. 1929. Will pr. in London at £2,083, 21 Jan. 1930; Richard Francis Keene, executor.
- 4a. CHARLES ROSSLYN CORBOULD, d. aged 17.
- 5a. WALTON CORBOULD, of 12, Woodgrange Avenue, Ealing, Mdx., b. at Eldon Lodge, Victoria Road, Kensington, 28 Dec. 1859, educ. at Woodbridge, Suffolk. Artist. Illustrated several books for children, and was for some time on the staff of "The World."

A water-colour portrait by him of his uncle Charles S. Keene is in the National Portrait Gallery.

He died at 12, Woodgrange Avenue, 13 April 1919, and was buried at Hampstead 15 April.

Married at Winchelsea, Sussex, 28 Dec. 1896, ANNIE HEPHZIBAH (NANCY), b. in London, dau. of William Webb WILSON, by his wife Hephzibah Young, and had:—

- 1b. DOROTHEA MARY ROSALIND CORBOULD, b. at Hampstead, 8 Jan. 1901; d. there 8 Jan. 1902.
 - 2b. CHARLES ROSSLYN CORBOULD, now in the Wanganui River district, New Zealand, b. at Hampstead 15 Jan. 1904, bapt. there, educ. at Wantage School. Settled in New Zealand, March 1926.
 - 3b. ALLAN HENRY FRANCIS CORBOULD, of 12, Woodgrange Avenue, Ealing, b. at 25, Dartmouth Park Road, London, N.W., 5 July 1908, educ. at Wantage School. A wireless operator in the Merchant Service.
8. ANNA CORBOULD, b. 1827, d. 13 April 1833.
 9. ELIZABETH MARY CORBOULD, d. in infancy.

SECTION V.

CHILTON CORBOULD

RICHARD THOMAS CORBOULD, of Tallymore, near Cheshunt, Herts, eldest son of Richard and Charlotte Corbould (see Section IV), born 24 Nov. 1783, was bapt. at St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, London. In 1852 he wrote in his Diary that he had a clear recollection of going to the City Road Chapel at the age of 7 (1790) and seeing the Rev. John Wesley, who was born in 1703.

He was elected into the service of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England on 16 June 1803, appointed Head of the Dividend Office some years later, and retired on a life pension in 1856.

In the following year Mr. Corbould went to visit his cousins the Pelham Corboulds at Hoxne and Syleham. On 24 June as he was walking to Hoxne Abbey, a cart overtook him and the driver, a complete stranger, asked if he were a Corbould, adding "You have a Corbould face, sir," Persistence of type, again.

When King William IV opened New London Bridge on 1 Aug. 1831, Mr. Corbould gave a banquet in celebration at his residence at Bankside, at which 150 guests were present.

He was, like his cousin, the Rev. R. Corbould Chilton, a remarkable pedestrian, and frequently walked from London to Otley House, Suffolk, where he for some time resided. At an advanced age he would walk more than 15 miles a day.

He died at his home near Cheshunt, 28 March 1865.

Married at Ufford, Suffolk, 3 Sep. 1810, MARY CHILTON, b. 2 Oct. 1789 at Ufford, d. at 4.53 p.m. 18 Oct. 1853, bur. at All Saints' Church, Norwood, Surrey. She was 17th in descent from King Edward III of England, being the third daughter of the Rev. Jacob Chilton, Rector of Eyke, co. Suffolk, by his wife, Frances Seaman, of Brockford, Suffolk.

Mrs. Corbould was one of the three patronesses of Mendlesham and owners of the Cotton estate formerly belonging to the Corbould family.

They had :—

1. ASTER RICHARD CHILTON CORBOULD, artist, b. 17 Sep. 1811, bapt. at St. George's Church, Bloomsbury, and at Easton, Suffolk. A celebrated painter of cattle and landscapes. He exhibited 35 paintings in the Royal Academy, 32 at the British Institution and 48 at the Suffolk Street Galleries between 1842 and 1877. He died at his residence 11, Phillimore Terrace, Kensington, 31 Oct. 1882, and was bur. at Hampstead. Will pr. in London, 14 Dec. 1882. Married at Claygate, Surrey, 27 April 1848, ELIZABETH ROYALL KER, who died 15 Jan. 1914; will pr. in London 7 Oct. 1914. She was the youngest child of Lieut. James Ker, R.N. (b. 1784, m. in 1815 Mary, sister of Admiral Sir James Scott, K.C.B., and dau. of Thomas Scott, of Ham Common, Surrey, Raeburn and Glenluce, Scotland, who was descended from the Duke of Buccleuch's family); granddau. of Commander John Ker, R.N. (b. 1756, m. 1783, d. 1814), by his wife Ann Royall (d. 1804); gt. gd. dau. of Robert Ker and of his wife Mary Barkley; and gt. gt. gd. dau. of Adam Ker, descended from the family of the Duke of Roxburgh.

Mrs. Aster Corbould was the sister of Mrs. H. H. Corbould, and aunt of Mrs. F. K. Corbould (her dau.-in-law) and of A. R. Corbould, who married Col. Forbes Bell (her cousin). They had issue:—

- 1a. CHILTON RICHARD CORBOULD, of Trevona, Ashtead Woods, Ashtead, Surrey, bapt. at Claygate, Surrey. Head of his branch of the Corbould family. Educ. at Harris's School, Windsor. Joined the firm of N. M. Rothschild & Sons, bankers, St. Swithin's Lane, London, in Nov. 1867 and retired in June 1918.
- 2a. ADRIAN HENRY CORBOULD, of Glendower, Alum Chine Road, Bournemouth, bapt. at St. Peter's Church, Southwark. Educated at Harris's School, Windsor. Joined the firm of N. M. Rothschild & Sons, bankers, St. Swithin's Lane, London, in Jan. 1869. He died at Bournemouth 15 July 1921; will pr. in London 5 Oct. 1921, at £11,223.

Married at Newport, Monmouth, 3 June 1891, FRANCES LILLY, of Lavender Lodge, Manor Green Road, Epsom, d. 17 July 1929, will pr. in London 19 Nov. 1929, eldest of the six daughters of Charles CULLUM, of Newport, Monmouth, and had issue:—

- 1b. ELLEN ROYALL CORBOULD, of Crossekeys, Elstree, Herts, b. at Forest Hill, 6 April 1892. Served in a Red Cross hospital and later worked at the Royal Naval Cordite Factory, Holton Heath, during the Great War. Unmarried.
- 2b. ERIC CHILTON CORBOULD, mechanical and electrical engineer; b. at Yale Cottage, Inglemere Road, Forest Hill, London, 4 June 1896, educ. at Margate and Exeter. Joined 2/7th Hampshire Regt. (T.) Nov. 1914, and was later gazetted Lieut. Indian Army and attached to the 44th Divl. Signal Coy., Sappers and Miners. Served in India, Mesopotamia and on the N.W. Frontier of India during the Great War, also in the Afghan War of 1919. Demobilized 1920.

Joined the firm of H. L. Rochat & Co., Bombay, as an engineer in 1921. Resided in Bombay until 1925, when he went to Calcutta as Manager of the Calcutta branch. Founded and became Managing Director of the firm of H. L. Rochat & Co. (Calcutta), Ltd., mechanical and electrical engineers and machinery importers, of Norton Buildings, 2, Old Court House Corner, Calcutta, in 1930.

Married in Bombay 5 June 1924, MARIE THERESE, b. posthumously 12 Oct. 1905, dau. of Charles Douglas SHARMAN, an Australian, descended through his mother from the Threlfall family. Mr. Sharman was one of the victims of bubonic plague during the great outbreak in Bombay in 1905, and married Marie Ada, b. in Mauritius, dau. of Louis Noel Banchillon, of Marseilles, who was married in Mauritius to Louisa Nancy, only dau. of Captain Bird, an Englishman, who on retiring from the Navy became a sugar planter in Mauritius and amassed a considerable fortune. Mrs. Sharman married 2ndly, in 1915, William Gladstone Edwards, a mechanical engineer, of Newcastle-on-Tyne. Mrs. Corbould's only sister, Marie Simonne, married in Bombay, Fritz Matzinger, of Zurich, Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Corbould have issue:—

- 1c. MARIE YVONNE CORBOULD, b. in Bombay 8 Aug. 1925, educ. at Loretto School, Shillong, Assam.
 - 2c. MARIE JOAN CORBOULD, b. in Calcutta, 3 Nov. 1926, educ. at Loretto School, Shillong.
 - 3c. MARGUERITE MARIE DENISE CORBOULD, b. in Calcutta, 26 April 1928, educ. at Loretto School, Shillong, Assam.
 - 4c. PATRICIA MARY DOROTHY CORBOULD, b. in Calcutta, 12 June 1930.
 - 5c. FRANCIS RICHARD CHILTON CORBOULD, b. in Calcutta, 3 June 1932.
- 3b. KATHLEEN ADRIENNE CORBOULD, b. at Forest Hill in 1898. Married at Bournemouth, in Nov. 1919, HUGH STANLEY HOPCRAFT, of Crossekeys, Woodcock Hill, Elstree, Herts, b. in 1893 at Chipping Ongar, Essex, educ. at St. Paul's School. He was gazetted Lieut. in the King's Shropshire Light Infantry, and served in the Great War from 1914 to 1916, when he lost his left leg in the battle of the Somme. He is the son of Lucignon Hopcraft, and a great-nephew of General Garibaldi, the Italian patriot.

There is a tradition that the Garibaldis are descended from Garbald the Viking, and therefore possibly of kin to the Corbould family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopcraft have an adopted daughter, SHEILA ANNE HOPCRAFT, b. 1927.

- 3a. KATHARINE CHARLOTTE CORBOULD, of Trevona, Ashted, Surrey.
- 4a. ERNEST EDWARD CORBOULD, of Epping, N.S.W., b. at Kensington, London, went to South Africa, and afterwards to Melbourne and Sydney, Australia. He subsequently purchased farms in the Wellington, Clarence River and Camden districts of New South Wales, and retired in 1924. Died at Poplar Private Hospital, Epping, New South Wales, 2 June 1926.

Married by special licence, 26 Jan. 1883, by Rev. Dr. Fullerton, to ALICE MAUD MARY EVERSLEIGH, who was born at Yass, N.S.W., shortly after the lawlessness and serious riots had been quelled on the goldfields there, and on being taken to the registrar at a time of patriotic enthusiasm, the name originally chosen for her was changed on official suggestion, which the parents fell in with, and the Registrar thereupon named the child after the second daughter of Queen Victoria.

She is the daughter of Robert Eversleigh, Gold Commissioner for New South Wales and Mining Engineer, who was born in London, and held many important posts in Australian gold mining companies, by his wife Mary Magdalene Marryat, a descendant of the naval Marryats of Asheldham, Essex, and of kin to the multi-millionaire Australian Rands through her mother Elizabeth Rand of Tillingham, Essex.

In character Mrs. Eversleigh closely resembled her near relative Mrs. Elizabeth Fry, philanthropist and reformer, the third daughter of John Gurney, Esq., of Earlham Hall, Norwich, the Quaker banker.

They had :—

- 1b. LIEUT. GORDON CLARENCE CORBOULD, Royal Australian Navy, b. 16 April 1888, educated at the High School, Sydney, which, on account of his early intellectual development and remarkable memory, he left while quite young, and joined a well-known firm of solicitors in Sydney.

In his short life he accomplished much ; apart from his vocation, law, his avocations and interests show his versatility—extensive foreign travel, architectural design and drawing, music, Egyptology, and electrical engineering. He was a voracious reader.

He won several prizes for swimming and was a sound cricketer. A noted rifle shot, his successes commenced at the age of 10, when he was in the Waverley Volunteer Cadet Corps.

On the outbreak of the Great War he gave up what promised to be a brilliant career as a lawyer, and having a love of the sea, which was probably inherited from the Marryats, Scotts and Kers as well as the Corboulds, he joined the Navy. In September 1914 he was drowned in submarine A.E.2 (believed to have been torpedoed), unmarried, aged 26 years.

- 2b. SYBIL MARJORIE CORBOULD, b. at Sydney, N.S.W., 4 Sep. 1892. A talented musician. Competing successfully from the early age of 13 in the various examinations at Sydney High School, she qualified as a public school mistress. She married, while still a girl-student at Sydney, WALTER ALFRED CARTER, son of Alfred Carter of London, England, analytical chemist and pharmacist, also a freemason, and has issue .
- 3b. ESPERANCE DOROTHY CORBOULD, of Asheldham, Essex Road, Epping, Sydney, N.S.W., b. at Sydney 12 May 1895, and was educated there, passing her examinations with honours. She has made a special study of economics and industrial law, and is in close contact with the political and industrial life of Sydney to an advanced degree.

- 5a. LEOPOLD ASTER CORBOULD, of Ladymead, Moorland Avenue, New Milton, Hants, educ. at Harris's School, Windsor. Clerk at Westminster Bank, Ltd., 41, Lothbury, London, Feb. 1880; retired through ill-health in 1912.
- 6a. CAPTAIN FRANCIS KER CORBOULD, R.N.R., of Preston Pans, Chandlers Ford, Hants, b. 30 March 1864. Educ. at Harris's School, Windsor. Joined the R.M.S.P. Co. in 1889 and rose to the rank of Commander. In 1902 he went to the relief of the inhabitants of St. Pierre after the great volcanic eruption, and received the thanks of the French Government. Served in the Great War from 1914 to 1918. In September 1915, when in command of the "Deseado," he successfully led the convoy of 17 ships, with 18,177 officers and men and 3,002 horses on board, from Southampton to Alexandria. On the completion of this voyage the following message was signalled to him "Captain Corbould, thank you kindly—the Deseado has been my mainstay all along. I wish you the best of luck. B.G.B. (ship's code name)." He had two narrow escapes from "U" boats, one coming within two yards of his ship.

His health was much impaired as the result of war service, and he died 3 April 1922. Will pr. in London 18 May 1922.

An American tribute (from 111, Broadway, New York) :—" Captain Corbould was one of those rare souls who make the world a happier place because of their abounding good humour and willingness to live and let live. Above all he was an object lesson in the way he took the rough with the smooth, always with a smile on his face and a kindly thought for others in the bargain. Humanity, Captain Corbould never lost sight of; and his passing is indeed a great loss."

He married at Amwell, Herts, 28 Dec. 1899, his first cousin, ELIZABETH MARY KATHARINE (of Ladymead, Moorland Avenue, New Milton, Hants), youngest child of John Edgar KER, of St. Margaret's, near Ware, Herts (b. 1817), by his wife Elizabeth Cansdale Wassell (who d. 1905), and granddau. of Lieut. James Ker, R.N. (b. 1784, m. 1815, d. 1846) by his wife Mary, dau. of Thomas Scott, of Ham Common, Surrey, Raeburn and Glenluce, Scotland, and sister of Admiral Sir James Scott, K.C.B.

2. CHARLOTTE MARY CORBOULD, b. 8 Feb. 1813, d. 2 March 1813.
3. CHARLOTTE MARY CORBOULD, of Huntroyde, near Burnley, Lancs., b. 6 March 1816, d. unmarried 12 Jan. 1898; will pr. in London 4 Feb. 1898.
4. EDWIN THOMAS CORBOULD, b. 29 Nov. 1817, d. 9 May 1818. Bur. at Ufford, Suffolk.
5. JULIA FRANCES CORBOULD, b. 30 July 1819, d. 6 Sep. 1819. Bur. at Ufford.
6. GEORGE CORBOULD, b. 12 May 1821, d. 5 April 1822. Bur. at Ufford.

SECTION VI.

EDWARD HENRY CORBOULD, R.I.

EDWARD HENRY CORBOULD, R.I., of Eldon Lodge, Victoria Road, Kensington, London, b. 5 Dec. 1815 at No. 6, Great Coram Street, Russell Square, London, eldest son of Henry Corbould, F.S.A. (see Section IV).

He was educated at the Palace School, Enfield, under Dr. May. Following in the footsteps of his forefathers who had for three generations been well-known artists, he adopted art as a profession and became one of the most distinguished historical painters of his time. He was a pupil of Henry Sass and a student at the Royal Academy. His first original design was in water-colour, the subject being the fall of Phaeton from the Chariot of the Sun. For this design he was awarded the gold Isis medal of the Society of Arts in 1834. In the following year he was again successful, winning the same prize for a model of a chariot race as described by Homer. These designs were then exhibited at the Royal Academy. At this time he had already shewn a design from Spenser's "Faerie Queene" at the exhibition of the Society of British Artists. In 1837, Mr. Corbould joined the New Society of Painters in Water Colours, and for many years contributed works to that gallery, chiefly subjects from Chaucer, Spenser and Shakespere. One of the earliest (now at Norbury Park, Dorking) was the assembling of the pilgrims in the yard of the Tabard Inn, Southwark.

In 1842 Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort visited the galleries of the Royal Institute, opposite Marlborough House, and purchased a water-colour painting by Mr. Corbould, then a young member of the Institute. Many of his works were subsequently purchased by Queen Victoria and went to Osborne House and Buckingham Palace. He was a prizewinner at two exhibitions in Westminster Hall. His picture of Floretta de Nerac, the first love of Henry IV of France, was purchased by Queen Victoria, and presented by her to the Emperor William, then King of Prussia. Two pictures were acquired by the Princess Royal (Empress Frederick). The painting from Tennyson's "Morte d'Arthur" was purchased in 1864 by Queen Victoria and presented by her to the Princess Louise. In that year, Mr. Corbould made, under the immediate superintendence of Her Majesty, a design for a piece of plate, to stand three feet high, as a christening present to the late Duke of Clarence.

In 1851, Sir Charles Phipps called on Mr. Corbould at his house in Rutland Gate and asked him whether he would accept the post of drawing master to the Royal children. He commenced work at Buckingham Palace on the first anniversary of the Duke of Connaught's birthday. "I remember," said E.H.C., "the Duke of Wellington coming across from Apsley House and presenting the little Prince Arthur with a sword he had worn during the Peninsular campaign, saying: 'Take this, my little Prince, for I am sure you will become a soldier.' ” He painted the Prince Consort’s portrait while staying with the Court at Balmoral Castle. His picture of Lady Godiva was bought by the Government of New South Wales as an example of English water-colour painting, and now hangs in the National Gallery at Sydney.

He retained the post of Instructor of Drawing and Painting to the Royal Family for 20 years. King Edward VII made his first purchase of a work of art in the acquisition of a picture by E. H. Corbould.

Between 1835 and 1874 he exhibited 17 paintings in the Royal Academy. He sent 250 drawings to the Institute, and only in 1898 did he retire from active membership, when his colleagues placed him on the honorary list. He watched the development of art in England for 70 years, himself taking a share in it; but never seeking to “advance” with change of taste. It is as an illustrator that he will be remembered. He was one of a group who made wood-drawing and book-illustration a living and moving art in the middle of the last century.

King Edward VII accepted a picture of “Edward VI and his tutor, Richard Cox, Bishop of Ely,”† sending E.H.C. in return a signed portrait of himself, with a letter which is now in the library of the Australian Club, Sydney, to which it was presented by Dr. Victor Corbould.

He executed four large sepia drawings (1) Boadicea calling on the Gods of Pridain to succour her against the Romans, (2) King Richard meeting the Kentish Insurgents under Wat Tyler, (3) King Henry’s welcome to London after Agincourt, (4) Queen Elizabeth going to Tilbury. These designs were made for proposed statuary to occupy the four pedestals on Blackfriars Bridge. They were to have been 32 feet in length; but the cost, £32,000 each, prevented their execution, although their designer offered to help the Corporation of the City of London to the extent of modelling them himself. The pedestals remain unoccupied to this day. W. H. Corbould bought these drawings and presented them to the Australian Club at Sydney, where they are hung in the library. He also presented E. H. Corbould’s “Knight of King Arthur’s Court, from Chaucer” to the Queensland Club, Brisbane.

In his early married life he lived in Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square, and one day his wife, who was looking out of the window, said “Ned, I think you had better go across the street and tell old Mr. Landseer,* who is at his door, that his servant has gone out. Ask him to come in here till the rain stops and his servant returns. He is an art critic and it might do you some good to get to know him better.” So he was brought in; he was very deaf and had the embarrassing unconscious habit of quietly but quite audibly voicing his innermost thoughts; his ordinary speaking voice was big and resonant, much like the growl of a certain animal at

†Bishop Cox’s daughter, Mrs. Macro, of Bury St. Edmunds (see Section II) had a son, Thomas Macro, also of Bury St. Edmunds, who was High Sheriff of Suffolk in 1701, and had issue:—

1. Dr. Cox Macro.

2. Mary Macro, m. 1711, John Wilson of Broomhead, York. Their only son was John Wilson (1719–83) the celebrated antiquary.

* John Landseer, A.R.A. (d. 1852, aged 91), father of Sir Edwin Henry Landseer, R.A., Charles Landseer, R.A., Thomas Landseer, A.R.A., and Henry Landseer, the Australian artist.

the Zoo. E.H.C. shewed him the work which he was engaged on, telling him that he was sending it to the forthcoming exhibition. Landseer said "Yes, yes, very nice indeed—very clever" (and sotto voce, "I don't like it a bit"), then growling and grunting aloud, he said "You are a very young man. I hope you will sell it" (sotto voce: "which you never will do if you live to be a hundred").

E. H. Corbould lived the rest of his life in Kensington.

One Sunday, when returning with his father from the service at Westminster Abbey, he pointed through the trees near Knightsbridge Barracks, and said "Do you see those scaffold poles? Well, that is the new house I am having built in Rutland Gate." His father dryly remarked, "Well, Neddy, I always thought you were a donkey, but I never dreamed you were such a fool as to build a house so far out of London. Who do you imagine will come so far to see your work?" When the house was finished, E.H.C. went to sleep in it for the first time on a Saturday night. Early on Sunday morning he was awakened by a manservant from a house opposite who enquired whether he had a gun. "No? I asked because I thought if you had, sir, I could shoot a hare which is in my garden and we could share it."

In the summer of 1904 Mr. Corbould fell down a flight of stone steps, and died as a result of his injuries at Kensington, 18th Jan. 1905, in his 90th year. He left a nett personalty of £5,158. By his will he desired the Queen to accept the best water-colour painting in his possession.

A contemporary account describes Mr. Corbould as a "courteous gentleman and a charming personality, whose achievement must take its place in any record of British art."

Nine water-colours, being scenes from the Opera Undine, as well as two others, "Henry IV" and "The Iconoclasts of Basle," remain in the possession of the Ex-Emperor Wilhelm of Germany at Doorn, Holland; but the German Government took possession of Corbould's "Floretta de Nerac," which is now at the Castle of Babelsberg.

His Majesty the King has many of Mr. Corbould's works. Fourteen water-colours and an oil painting are in Buckingham Palace, a portrait of the Prince Consort (by H. L. Smith after Corbould) and two pictures are at Windsor Castle, and there are three pictures at Osborne.

CORBOULD OF BATH.

SECTION VII.

CORBOULD OF BATH

The youngest son of Richard and Martha Corbould (see Section II) was RICHARD CORBOULD, b. 1714, bapt. at Cotton 26 April 1714, d. 13 March 1814 in his 100th year, having had two sons :—

1. WILLIAM CORBOULD, of Eye Clint and Syleham, Suffolk, b. circa 1740, d. after 1791. Married by licence at Syleham, 22 Dec. 1775, SARAH WELTON, of Eye, widow, and had two daughters, the elder married Mr. KNEWITT of Stradbroke, and the younger married Mr. THEOBALD of Syleham.
2. PELHAM CORBOULD, of Monks Hall, Syleham, now a farmhouse, born c. 1741. He was famous for his lavish hospitality, and this was continued by his widow CATHERINE . . . until her death at the age of 90. She married 2ndly, James Walne, of Monks Hall, who died aged 95.

R. T. Corbould in his diary describes Mr. and Mrs. Walne as “a pair of the most hospitable people in Suffolk or any other county.”

On the death of Mrs. Catherine Walne the following verses appeared in the “Ipswich Journal” :—

Syleham, indeed, a heavy loss deplores !
But not alone ; for every parish round,
Walne's name, if not his residence, adores,
And owns a loss with sympathy profound.

O I have join'd the hospitable board,
And often view'd the venerable pair ;
Exulting that their gifts they could afford,
And so much bounty from their substance spare.

One soul directed both ; let who would come,
A friend or worldling, both alike appear'd,
And never guest but found himself at home,
In gladness welcom'd, and in sorrow cheer'd.

It seemed a favour to partake their fare,
And such abundance greeted ev'ry guest,
That was their heaven, promptly to prepare
A room for feasting and a room for rest.

Nor care nor poverty had need to fawn,
Or cringe for proud and ostentatious aid ;
A look, a word, from " Aunt " or " Uncle " Walne,
The very fears of poverty allay'd.

Dear, good old man ! Thy years so honor'd blest
I would the moisture from thy forehead wipe ;
And still, beside thee, with an honest jest,
Enjoy the social converse with a pipe.

Sustain his years ye kindred souls who own
The honour due to age and manly worth ;
There is, I know, a coveted renown,
A boast of heaven and a scorn of earth.

Springing from sources that I've not explored,
There is, of human worth, a saintly dread ;
But if " Aunt Walne " were honor'd and adored,
T'were less than human, not to weep her dead.

Hoxne Abbey is built on the site of a wooden chapel in which the body of St. Edmund lay until its removal to Bury St. Edmunds. The tradition of the place asserts that King Edmund hid from the Danes under a bridge over the river Dove, now called Gold Bridge, and that a newly-married couple, crossing the bridge by moonlight, saw the reflection of the King's golden spurs in the water, and betrayed him. St. Edmund accordingly pronounced a curse on every couple who should cross the bridge on their way to be married; and a wide circuit was made by any prospective bride and bridegroom in order to avoid it.

The following legend, apparently concerning the Pelham family, ancestors of the Corboulds of Hoxne, has been handed down through several generations of the Corboulds of Bath: One of the Pelhams was knighted. His son would not marry the heiress chosen for him by his father, who disinherited him in consequence. Soon after this the Press Gang got hold of him as a young man; but he deserted and got away abroad. He came to England a few years afterwards in disguise and was known in Bristol as "the dark gentleman who rode a white horse."

PELHAM CORBOULD resided at Hoxne Abbey at the close of the 18th century. He was born c. 1765 and died at Hoxne Abbey 5 Oct. 1811. By his wife, a daughter of Dr. RUTTER, he had :—

1. DR. PELHAM CORBOULD, of Redenhall-with-Harleston, Norfolk, and later of Bath, born c. 1790. Believed to have retired from the medical profession on his succession to the business of "Pelham Corbould," brewers, maltsters, distillers, and merchants, of Harleston, Norfolk. Churchwarden at Redenhall in 1851. Died at Redenhall 21 March 1864, will proved at Norwich 20 May 1864. Married MARY . . ., of Great Yarmouth, who died there 10 July 1884 aged 86. Her will was proved at Norwich by C. A. Duckett, Esq., M.D., on 20 Sep. 1884. They had :—

- 1a. WILLIAM CORBOULD, of 72, Regent Road, Great Yarmouth, d. at Hoxne, Suffolk, 18 Oct. 1902. Probate of his will was granted in London 19 Feb. 1903 to Jane Plowman, widow.
2. JOHN CORBOULD, of Margate, Kent, and 8, Oxford Row, Bath. Born at Palgrave, Norfolk, and afterwards lived at Diss, Norfolk, and 7 and 32, Milsom Street, Bath.
 As a small boy he was taken by his father (who always wore breeches, long stockings and shoes with buckles) to Norwich Cathedral and was shewn a very old monument to an ancestor of the Corboulds. In 1880 only the surname remained on this ancient tablet.
 He died 4 May 1872 at 8, Oxford Row, Bath. His will is dated 5 Jan. 1867, and was proved at Bristol Nov. 1 1872 by Frederick Morris, jun., of 22, Milsom Street, Bath.
3. JESSE CORBOULD, of Southbroom Place, Devizes, Wilts, and 37, Broad Street, Bath, gent., d. at Devizes 10 Dec. 1884, will pr. at Salisbury 21 Jan. 1885 by J. A. Smith and G. Salway. He married Mrs. NAOMI HUNT, a widow with four children. She owned property in Devizes, including 11 and 12, Britley. She died at Devizes 18 Nov. 1875. Her will, dated 3 Dec. 1874, was proved at Salisbury 24 March 1876.
4. ELIZABETH CORBOULD, died before 1861.
5. THOMAS CORBOULD of the Bluecoat School and Corbould's Academy, and of 16, Crescent Fields, Bath, died at Bath, 3 March 1871.

The Pelham Corboulds and the Corboulds of Fitzroy Square had not met for many years when George James Corbould the Artist was walking in Bath with a friend named Smith, who began talking about surnames. Corbould turned to his companion and remarked "Go where you will, you'll always find Smiths but you rarely see the name Corbould anywhere." He had no sooner said this when his friend replied "Do not be so sure of that, for what do you read over that doorway." It was "CORBOULD'S ACADEMY." Thos. Corbould married . . . COUSINS, who d. at Bath 13 March 1871, having had :—

- 1a. THOMAS CORBOULD, b. 1818, of whom later.
- 2a. ROBERT RUTTER CORBOULD, of Long Island, New York. Married c. 1853, . . ., and had :—
 - 1b. MARY CORBOULD, of Long Island, New York, born c. 1854. Married in 1877,
- 3a. WILLIAM CORBOULD, b. at Bath 14 April 1828. Married 3 April 1858, JULIA AUGUSTA SIGNELL, of Bristol (aged 19). Sailed shortly afterwards, with his wife, in a 300-ton wooden sailing ship 12,000 or 14,000 miles, for the goldfields of Ballarat, Australia. She died at Ballarat 3 Sep. 1876, aged 36. He died there 24 Jan. 1914 aged 86, leaving issue :—

- 6c. MOLLY MARIAN CORBOULD, b. at Melbourne c. 1900.
- 2b. WILLIAM HENRY CORBOULD, b. at Ballarat 4 Nov. 1866, educ. at Ballarat College ; Mining Engineer and Metallurgical Chemist ; Life Member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgy ; Member of the Australian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy ; Member of the Australian Chemical Institute. Was on the Broken Hill silver fields 1885, and afterwards visited Great Britain, the United States, Austria, Japan, France, Canada, Germany and China for the purpose of studying mining, geological formations and metallurgical works.

In 1893 he walked from Fremantle, Western Australia, to the Coolgardie goldfields (some 300 odd miles). On the field, water was selling at 1s. to 2s. per gallon, a 1 lb. loaf of bread cost 1s. 6d. ; the price of everything else was in the same proportion.

In recent years he was the directing spirit, in its early period, of Mt. Isa Mines, Ltd., Queensland, a company with a capital of 3,000,000 shares of £1 each. The proved ore reserve, which is the fundamental asset of the business, already places Mt. Isa as one of the greatest lead-zinc deposits of the world, and this can be increased at any time as the full extent of the ore-bodies have not as yet been delimited. It has been necessary to expend over £3,540,000 to develop and equip Mt. Isa on a scale commensurate with the importance of the mines, and in order to ensure that production costs will compare favourably with any producer of first rank importance.

In an article headed "The Makers of Mt. Isa," one of the leading Brisbane newspapers recorded that Mr. J. C. Miles found Mt. Isa ; but it was left to Mr. W. H. Corbould to bring it to the notice of the big international mining groups of the world, and he it was who had the technical knowledge and sufficient imagination to see the wealth of the ore, and to realize that only capital reckoned in millions could exploit successfully the low-grade deposits.

He married at Folkestone, Kent, England, UNA RUBINA, of Sydney, New South Wales, dau. of Lieut. Henry DODDS, R.N. (who settled in N.S.W., and took up land there), and had issue :—

- 1c. VIOLET UNA CORBOULD, b. at Kensington Gate, London, W.8., 28 Jan. 1898, d. there 17 Feb. 1898, aged 20 days. Bur. in London.
- 2c. EVELYN UNA CORBOULD, b. at Perth, Western Australia, in 1902. Married in 1923 at Government House, Rabaul, Territory of New Guinea, Lieut.-Cmdr. DYSON STANDISH HORE-LACY, R.N. (retd.), occupier and sole owner of Garua Island, Talasea, T.N.G., who served in the Great War.

He is the son of Lieut.-Colonel Leslie Fraser Standish Hore, M.C., of Luburua, Kavieng, T.N.G., Barrister-at-Law, Resident Magistrate at Rabaul, who served in the Great War with the 2nd Australian Light Horse in Gallipoli and France, by his wife Emily Josephine, b. 1874, one of the three survivors of the wreck of the S.S. "Quetta" in 1890, eldest daughter of Dyson Lacy of St. Helens, near Mackay, Queensland. Lt. Col. L. F. S. Hore is the son of Colonel Hore.

Dyson Lacy was born at Newark, Notts, in 1836, and died at Sydney, N.S.W., in 1927, aged 91. He was a pioneer of the grazing industry in Queensland. On July 3 1873 he was married at Wetheral, Cumberland, to Frances Emilia, dau. of Commander Joseph Irwin, R.N. (b. 1792, d. 1890 in his 99th year), who was the 3rd son of Thomas Irwin of Justicetown and Solport, Cumberland.

Cmdr. and Mrs. Hore-Lacy have issue :—

- 1d. JOHN DYSON HENRY HORE-LACY, b. at Rabaul, T.N.G., 25 May 1924.

2. JAMES CORBOULD, of Woolecote Lodge, Ventnor, Isle of Wight, b. at Blenheim House, Ventnor 20 April 1861; educ. at Woodspeen House, Newbury, during the headmastership of his grandfather and of his uncle. In 1876 he commenced a voyage round the world in the "Plassy," and as third in command helped to bring the ship safely through the great Bermuda hurricane of 1879. On this voyage scurvy broke out, and the "Plassy" was so much damaged by terrific seas that it took six months and a half to complete the return voyage compared with the normal sailing period of 21 days. He saw the "Atalanta" capsized in the hurricane and she was never spoken again. By an odd chance the wreck of her sister ship H.M.S. Eurydice off the Isle of Wight in 1878 was witnessed by Miss Elizabeth Holbrook who afterwards became his wife.

In 1892 he succeeded to his father's business; later this was sold outright to Long & Co., Ltd., of Portsmouth. Mr. Corbould is a member of the Yarborough Masonic Lodge No. 551, and was for 28 years Hon. Sec. of Ventnor Sailing Club. On coming ashore he became an enthusiastic infantry volunteer and in one year won £65 worth of prizes for rifle shooting.

Mr. Holbrook married, at Newchurch, Anne, b. 28 May 1828, d. at Ventnor 11 April 1896, bur. there, eldest dau. of Jacob Fowler of Berelay, Niton (b. 1795, d. at Berelay 1 Dec. 1879 in his 85th year, bur. at Niton), by his wife Jane (b. and bapt. at Niton in 1791, d. at Berelay 20 Jan. 1880 in her 89th year, bur. at Niton), elder dau. of Thomas Whitewood of Niton by Jane Arthur his wife.

The Whitewood family, which is recorded in Niton registers for 200 years, resided at Rookley in the parish of Godshill in the 17th century, and the Arthurs were at Niton as early as 1632.

Both through the families of Holbrook and Whitewood, Mrs. Corbould is connected with that of Urry, resident at Thorley since the 16th century.

Mrs. Joseph Holbrook's sister, Mary, is now in her 98th year.

SECTION XVII.

CORBOULD OF ORILLIA, CANADA.

LIEUT. CHARLES CORBOULD, R.N. (retd.), of "Bracon," Orillia, Canada, 3rd son of the Rev. John Corbould (Section XIII), b. at Bracon Ash, Norfolk, 2 May 1799, bapt. at St. Giles's Church, Norwich, 8 May 1799.

One of his earliest recollections was of Lord Nelson dining with his father at Bracon Ash Rectory prior to the great admiral's departure on the voyage that culminated in the battle of Trafalgar.

At the age of thirteen he joined the Royal Navy as a midshipman in the battleship H.M.S. Elizabeth, commanded by Post Captain Gower, and sailed to the Mediterranean to join the fleet then blockading Toulon. He subsequently served at the siege of Algiers and the blockading of Venice. He met the Duke of Wellington, and at Elba was spoken to by the Emperor Napoleon I.

At the close of the war, Lieut. Corbould retired from the Navy and matriculated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge, in 1823, later qualifying as an attorney and solicitor. He practised as an attorney at 8, Gray's Inn Square, London, from 1829 to 1837. He also qualified for the Canadian Bar.

When he retired from practice in England he settled at York Mills, Canada, and there engaged in extensive farming and milling projects.

On the outbreak of the Mackenzie rebellion, Mr. Corbould took an active part in the defence of Toronto, and was stationed at the Bank of Upper Canada until the trouble ended.

Some years later he moved from York Mills to Orillia, where he died on 11 Dec. 1892 in the 94th year of his age and the 53rd of his marriage. Bur. at Orillia.

APPENDIX A

The tradition of their descent from Gerbald or Garbald the Dane (see Appendix B) is consistently held by all branches of the family; until recently some of these branches, it is believed, had not met or corresponded with one another for two hundred years.

There are two other traditions. One is that Garbald, or possibly an earlier forbear, sailed to Egypt, and that he was the first of his race to visit India and Cathay; although, so far as is known to the writer, no one of this name appears in records relating to Egypt, India, or China, Tacitus mentions Domitius Corbulo, who died in A.D. 67 and was Nero's Commissioner in Parthia, Persia. The other tradition, very strong in some branches, is that centuries ago a Corbould became one of the highest dignitaries of the Church; he may have been William Corboyl, Archbishop of Canterbury, who died 21 Nov. 1136, having crowned King Stephen at Westminster Abbey on 26th Dec. in the previous year.

In the 11th century in England there were seven distinct people differing only slightly in name from that of the Viking Gerbald or Garbald, and those of the more modern Corbold (1395), Corbald (1450), Gorbould (1639), Gorbould (1711), Gorble (1724), Curbuill (Percy cart.)* and Corbould (1410 to the present day). In appendix D, note Parson Woodforde's spelling "Carbould" in 1794—the name is still pronounced so by rustic Suffolk and Norfolk, and the sound cannot be distinguished from the first two syllables of Garboldisham. The seven were:—

- I. GERWALD or GEROLDUS, who owned land near Carleforda, Suffolk, previous to the Domesday compilation. The Teutonic Gerwald is derived from the Old Saxon "gér," Old English "gár" and Old Norman "geirr," a spear, and the Old Norman "vald," might or power. Progenitor of the living Garrould family, who descend through the 16th century Garolds of Beccles, Suffolk.
- II. CORBY of CORBIE in Picardy, France: spelt CORBINE in Hollinshed's copy of the Roll of Battle Abbey (Corbyn and Corbold are variations in the name of one person in a deed dated 1632: there are several other instances of the alternation of these two names, one is that of Thomas Corbould, living in 1590, signing for a legacy under the will of his father as Thos. Corbyn; also the surname of John "Corborne" freeman of Norwich 1502 may be another variant); in Leland's copy he is bracketed with Corbet, who was Robert the 3rd son of
- III. HUGH CORBEAU of Normandy who was living in 1040. Sir Bernard Burke wrote that this is "one of the few families still existing, who trace, in the male line, an undoubted descent from an ancient race of the same name in Normandy." John Corbould of Brockdish, Suffolk, spelt his name Corbough in his will dated 1410.

*Chaucer writes of "quirboilly," that is, "cuirbouilli," the strong armour made of boiled leather, and from this word one authority conjectures that the surname of William Curbuill might have been derived.

APPENDIX B

THE CORBOULD LEGEND

GERBALD, HIS TREASURE

Gerbald having come back from the Mediterranean Sea with much gold treasure and other spoil and still more ships, glad with success, to Friesland, was angered because whilst he was away it had been planned that he should obey the new customs of coming and going at the will of his brother overlords, and of placing shares of spoil in the Common Barn for them and the free folk to share, and he takes witness at once.

By two faithful hús-carls he sends tidings by the word to those who were angry for the like cause to come to him.

Many came to him.

After a feast of welcome, Gerbald spake these words :—“ Kinsmen and Faithful Friends. Our ancient freedom is about to be taken from us, shall we fight for it, or leave our land ? If we stay as we are we shall be shorn of our rights.

We have sailed the open seas and brought back the fishes that live in them which belong to the fisherman since no man owns the seas. We have taken from weaklings what they had neither the strength nor the wit to hold, and by the cunning of our own northern wit, matched in fair fight against the sluggards of the south, we have come by many a sound ship, many a weapon to aid us in the fight or chase, and many a gay trinket to adorn our women.

Are we to give the first fruits of all these to men who stay at home and chew the cud of idleness ? I say No, and again No.

Then the wise ones mooted, and counselled that as they had had more than enough of seeing the dew of Woden flow from their own kith and kin, and as most thought to sail to other lands, each should choose for himself.

They put this to Gerbald, and he resolves to go to Ænglelande, to which land he is no stranger, and he spake again :—

“ Who sails the westernway ?

“ Who fares with me to Ænglelande ? Many of our kin are there and have made part of it ours. Guthrun is there, and Thordi his very shadow is near Hedleaga, and let them look to it, for they speak evil of us without truth ; but there, they are too small fishes for my net ! ”

“ It is a friendly land, its lakes and rivers are free to our ships. We will first sail up the Dufva, which they call Waveney, past the first ford to the place they call Skål in our own tongue. The folk in that part of Ænglelande are ruled over by one king—there is talk of an Overking, but his spears seem blunt, and the overlords strive among themselves there as here. If our kinsmen who live on the

IV. AELVRIC OF GERBOLDISHAM who held Garboldisham, Norfolk, in 1040. The area of his land and its rating appear in Domesday Book.

V. GODBOLD, held lands at Wiston, Suffolk, in the time of King Edward the Confessor; in King John's time these lands passed to the Horksleys. The Lordship of Neyland included part of Suffolk and, besides other lands, the Essex villages of Great and Little Horkesley, the latter was held in the 12th year of King John's reign by Robert son of Philip de Horkesley and continued in that family for many generations. The Priory of St. Peter at Little Horkesley was founded by Robert de Godebold and was formerly a cell in the Abbey of St. Martin of Troarn, Normandy, the Abbots of which had many curious dealings with Little Horkesley—one was the exchange of Horkesley Parish Church for lands which the Priory of Bruton held in Normandy.

Until the end of the reign of James I the Corboulds of Bardwell, Suffolk, apparently spelt their name either Godbold or Corbold—as they chose at the moment.

VI. GOBAUDE, the Norman, came over with William the Conqueror, and is in Leland's Copy of the Roll of Battle Abbey.

VII. CUBALD OF CUTHBALD, who held lands in Suffolk in the time of King Edward the Confessor; vide Domesday Book. Cuthbeald became Cu'beald.

Susan CUBAUD was living in Suffolk in 1273.

Walter COBALD, living at Monk Soham in 1310, and at Thorp, Suffolk, in 1335, married before 1335, Johanna . . ., and had Geoffrey COBALD, who lived at Weybred and Fressingfeld, Suffolk, in 1361. The latter married before 1361, Alice . . ., and they had a son John COBALD, b. circa 1360, who lived at Weybred 1397.

Thomas COBALD was elected Mayor of Great Yarmouth, Suffolk in 1349. In 1379 he bequeathed to the High Altar at Yarmouth his "best holiday vestment there to be used as long as it shall last: to Martin Wodesyde chaplain, one missal, two vestments and a chalice." After his decease they were to go to St. Mary's altar in that church and there to continue for ever.

William COBALD, clericus, chaplain at Windham (Wymondham), Norfolk, died 1464, leaving £5 towards the building of Windham Church.

William COBALD of Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, died c. 1441. His will, 1442, is at Bury. He married Annabella . . ., who died c. 1432. Her will, 1433, is at Bury.

James COBALD, clericus, Rector of Barsham, Suffolk, in 1450; Vicar of Mutford, Suffolk, 1465.

northern coast of Gaul spake truly when I was with them not many days ago, things may so happen in Ænglelande that such men as we, relying on our strong arms, daring to put our fate to the hazard, can turn the way of battle as we will if we but be there in time."

"Who sails the westernway?"

This and more spake Gerbald, and his words were gravely marked for he was a fighter famed and feared, a mighty navigator and a very cunning man.

Many plan to go with Gerbald, and, an even east wind springing up with a fair sea, forty ships sailed to Ænglelande, and ten more ships with them laden with gear and treasure, on the first faring: on the second faring, the same forty sailed and five laden with gear and treasure, and five were sailed to Viborg to bring back woollen cloth.

Some plan to go to Norway, for there lived Gerbald's own kinsman Rol, him they called Robertus when he took Gisla to wife. Rol liked a fight more than most; but he did not like a blow on the head whilst he slept and bootless fighting all day; and as there was no end to that, he sailed to Gaul. From him came Robertus, and Gulielmus, and from them came Hamon, and Ricardus who took to wife his kinswoman Gunilda.

Some fared to the fiords, but their sons lived no better under Eric Bloody-axe.

Some plan to sail to Iceland and the further land. And to the Western Isles fared Kerbal, the bold Lion, with Einar and Armuinn of the torn face who made music. Some plan to sail to the South.

But Gerbald commanded that a few shall stay with those older ones who had dwelt so long on the land that they had in sooth become as the birch trees, and to uproot them now to fare oversea to new lands would go hard with them; besides, some must stay to tell tidings, and their thralls must be there to tend beacons.

Now, in the springtime of two years before, Gerbald had sailed up the Waveney River and had seen that the land was fertile and fair; and he had seen and desired someone who was fairer still, Elswitha, the young and most comely golden-haired daughter of a Saxon king who was friendly, and so was she.

At glepja never was the way with Gerbald or his kin, so he was twice welcome to go back; and to this place fares Gerbald full of purpose, the place now called after him Gerboldisham, for the Saxon gave him, with Elswitha, (these) lands as a dowry on a solemn oath and promise, and took witness before all, that when Gerbald the Dane was borne to Valhalla, Elswitha his wedded wife should not fare with the lands, or ever become heritage, and that she should remain free to say yes, or no.

And Helwis half-sister of Gerbald offered herself, and was held, in gentle thraldom to that end, and yet not all for the liking of her brother. She had her will; but was soon free and a wedded wife, as all saw would happen.

At that place Gerbald abided most of his life, always faring back to these new lands after many voyages.

Gerbald and Elswitha had three sons and some daughters. One bright day she slowly spake these words "It grows dark, Gerbald, keep us together."

Then the Gods took Elswitha, the kindest and fairest of women. Never lived one more faithful than she.

As became a king's daughter she was brave beyond belief, yet without any defence in herself, and she was gracious to all—even to her thralls.

From the first to the last Gerbald knew that he was well wedded, and now he was filled with sorrow, and others were too.

Woe worth the day; but it was doomed so. After all, everyone must bear his own burden.

Soon after that, Gerbald dreamed that a golden light filled his hall in the night, and Thor's black raven and two golden ones settled on his bed, and the loemingi flew silently round them. On the next night he dreamed the same.

On the third night he dreamed that the three ravens came and were settling again, when all went black, and up rears the Devil* himself with his baleful light at the foot of the bed. Gerbald laughed outright at him in scorn, and spake these words:—"I am master here: I will that you fare to the place whence you came." But the wise ravens knowing his power and anger flew at him and tore, till there was no longer strength in it, the Devil's left arm which he had uplifted,—and what he then lost Gerbald gained—and the Devil fared shrieking away and nevermore has been seen by Gerbald's kin. For, so long as they are just, they, as is not given to all men, have power over the spirits of darkness, power to heal, power over the left as over the right.† They are foresighted men and women and dream truth—some of them know things without the telling.

Then the golden light came back, and he heard the loom call out clearly to him that he should live seven times as many days as he had seen ravens in all that night.

So on the morrow he called his sons to be alone with him and told them of his dream, and got ready.

To the eldest Thorbald he gives great silver treasure, gear, many bags of sceattas, and many ships, and bids him sail away after a score of days to where the land is fruitful, and yet always to tell tidings with his brothers and to hold himself ready to fare to their aid in times of need. Men came from Thorbald.

To the second Kolbald who was the father of Codbeald, he gives lands, treasure, many bags of sceattas, gear, and a score of big ships, and counsels him to use some of them for trading with near countries, and not to wantonly quarrel with any of the overlords in Ænglelande as was his wont, and not to slay more of them than needs be, so that in fighting times he and his men would be able to sway the battle as would serve them best.

To the youngest Garbald who was the father of Aelfric, Cubbeald and Corbeald, and who, like Elswitha, helped the weak and was never first in stirring strife, and yet was like Gerbald, his father, a fighter in very sooth when once he had started, he spake these words: "Fare in Ænglelande as thy wit and will are, and lead the folk to become useful men in all ways." To him he gives treasure, many bags of sceattas, one ship and much land. This was Garbald the Christian.

And then Gerbald commanded them all to continue to fight fairly and be just men, and to do nothing that should make their name of less fame and honour; and to try to agree amongst themselves, yet all could see that they would not; and that his old round war-shield, which was faced with gold on which was marked the head, the wings, the body and the legs of Thor's Raven, and the back of which was malâ spiot, was to be upheld ready by the eldest of his sons and their sons; and that that sign, Thor's Raven, was to be known by all of them as a token for their coming together when needs be.

And then he told them where he had hidden great wealth in a place not open. He commanded them to use it only in times of great need, and as used all must work to set back what was taken out.

He told them of its power and that sometimes overkings would be moved to the will of another by it; and that the hiding-place must be known only to three at one time, his sons or their sons, and if one died then the next in wisdom or kinship must be told and no other, and though she be of the very nearest in kinship seldom must it be told to a woman, and never to a woman not of kin. If the three agree that it shall be used, let it be used; if not, then they must fight until one be killed and another chosen in his place, and again until they do agree.

Gerbald minded the bodings, and thought that about now would be the meet time to tell them to his sons if they did not know. He warned them that Grimir, who always foretold truth, had said "What Gerbald has, his sons' sons shall lose through the idle chatter of a woman; and after two and fifty score of years they shall find it again, and more, through another woman of kin who shall dream truth. Sons after sons will be venturers over the great seas and men will come from them; though none too many. Some will be drowned, but not while fishing."

Thorbald, Kolbald and Garbald, each for all, spake these words:—"All that you have told us we hear: we will hold it." And on the one and twentieth day after his dream,

Across the forever
Across the ice-cold frozen wastes
Across the great silence

From beyond Valhalla, Elswitha beckoned to him.

They who stood beside know that Gerbald fared to her gladly in peace.

He had the hellshoon fitted to his feet; and out of the water up on to dry land by where they had buried Elswitha, his ship was drawn, and the heavy stones put in it to upright it; then he was laid in it, and the howe heaped over them both.

He was well remembered, for he was a just man and unafraid; he trusted in nothing but his own daring and hardihood. He was always willing to fight, and always fought fairly.

Such was Gerbald the King's Thegn.
So live.

God grant us all good days without end. Amen.

APPENDIX C

Both ambidexterity and left-handedness are to be found in a marked degree among members of all branches of the family.

Richard Corbould, the left-handed landscape artist, was born in 1757. His great-grandsons Chilton and Walton Corbould being ambidextrous and left-handed respectively. His great-great-granddaughters, Evelyn Forbes Bell and Kathleen Adrienne Hopcraft are left-handed. Peter Forbes Bell is also left-handed.

The Corboulds of Bracon Ash include many: Frances Marion Corbould Anderson and her cousin Norah Jean Corbould are left-handed, and the latter's sister Joan Alma Corbould is ambidextrous. Their aunt, Mrs. Motherwell (née Nella Alma Corbould) was left-handed when young. The late Derek Corbould-Warren was ambidextrous, and his aunt, Mrs. Bomford (née Maude Corbould-Warren), is very left-handed. Edith Sophia Cotton, Marjory Clare Fulford, Mrs. Hawes (née Drusilla Way) and Phyllida E. Way are ambidextrous, and their cousin Nora Orillia Boyes is left-handed, so too is William Walker of Toronto.

This is also a marked characteristic of the Corboulds of Bath and Speen. George G. Corbould of Bristol was ambidextrous (as were other members of his branch) and his great-great-nephew George C. B. Poulter has an equal facility of use of both hands.

Aug. 26, Friday . . . Mr. and Mrs. Corbould with Mrs. Manning called on us this Morning, eat some Harvest Cake & had some Mead.

Parson Woodforde records that during the night of the 11th/12th September 1796 he dreamt of various things and of a soldier, and in particular of old Mr. Corbould; and that during Monday morning (12th Sep.) a raven flew over the Rectory "all of which tokens are supposed to bode no good." This association of the raven with a Corbould before certain events is of interest as it confirms the age-old family tradition and superstition.
